

THE SHOW: The Jerry Sun Show, playing nightly except Monday in Rick's Rancho.

WHAT IT'S LIKE: Over the past five years this has been one of the most popular show groups that ever played Santa Maria. The current stand will probably be no exception — the ex - lettuce picker from Salinas hasn't changed a bit.

The cast, however, has changed a lot. The only person left of the original Jerry Sun show (except the leader man himself) is guitarist Jimmy Doshier, who has been playing with the Sun group the whole seven and a half years.

Girls on the front line are, as usual, beautiful and talented (and very well choreographed). Lin Maureen and Lori Oliver share the front row with Jerry these days. Backing them up are Doshier, Bill Solomon on keyboard and bass, Sal Barnese at the drums and Greg Marciel on keyboard and trumpet.

In spite of all the changes, the show is the same. That is, of course, because it is Jerry's show. He is smooth and easy, still jokes a lot about Guadalupe and has a strong and friendly reach to the patrons.

The routines change over the seasons. Currently the new special numbers are a thing that Lori does called Play That Funkie Music, a medley of the Beatle gold records, a special based on MacArthur Park and a little revue called Africana. Lots of new music and costumes, but the same old (not very, at that) and superb entertainer — Jerry Sun — to run the production and star in it.
